Curb Bill Slowed

String Tying To Power Grant Is Expected

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 — Delay until Friday for a Senate vote on President Truman's economic controls bill may bring some restrictions on the far-reaching measure.

Senate Minority Leader Wherry (R) Neb., said the Senate is "being hysterical" and that he expects a trend toward tying some strings to the powers to be granted the President.

Wherry said, however, that the most he hopes for is to attach some amendments to the measure. But he doubts that he and Sen. Taft can win on their attempt to require that Congress "pull the trigger" to put wage and price controls into effect. Too many Republicans already have declared against them, he said.

Administration forces say they are not worried by the delay, which is due to absenteeism. They are satisfied that nothing but minor amendments will be voted, and that "trigger-pulling" will be left in the hands of the President.

Although Republican leaders called a special conference in an attempt to patch up a party split over the controls bill, the Democrats were confident they had more than enough votes to (Continued on Page Two)

13 Locomotives Said Destroyed

TOKYO, Aug. 14—"Tiny Tim" rockets were disclosed today to have been used for the first time in actual warfare during "successful" Sunday air attacks on a wide variety of enemy targets in Korea.

U. S. Navy carrier planes of Task Force 77 used the 12-inch "tiny tim" with "devastating results" against North Korean rolling stock and bridges.

The "Tiny Tim" is an armor piercing rocket with what a Navy spokesman termed "terrific explosive power." He declared the rocket is misnamed, since "it's neither tiny nor timid." "Tiny Tim" is carried under the wings of carrier based planes.

First Tropical Hurricane Said Still Moving Slowly

MIAMI, Aug. 14 — A small tropical hurricane, the first of the 1950 season, rose out of the waters of the Atlantic Ocean today and swirled to 380 miles north of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The Miami Weather Bureau reported at 9 a. m. that the highest winds have reached a speed of about 75 miles an hour near the storm's center. This puts the storm in the hurricane class.

The disturbance, which has been moving west across the South Atlantic for a week, still is about 1,000 miles southeast of Miami and the Florida mainland.

President Said Ready To Ask Congress For UMT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—President Truman is reported ready today to ask for a Universal Military Training Law as soon as Congress completes action on present emergency legislation.

Commander George N. Craig of the American Legion expressed his personal belief that the White House will ask for passage of a UMT bill calling for conscription of 18 and 19-year-olds at least on a stand-by basis.

Craig asserted in an NBC "meet the press" television show that the "President is now for such legislation and has always been for it."

The American Legion commander called the "cold war" with Communism a "life and death struggle."

The commander said he believed that a recent White House report that the President would not ask for UMT until next January resulted from a "misunderstanding."

Craig declared that "the United States must prepare a huge pool of manpower" to meet the threat of Communism and that the best way to do it would be through UMT.

PRESIDENT Truman has each year for the past five years recommended enactment of a Universal Training Law, but Congress has consistently turned it down.

However, since the outbreak of the Korean war and the inception of the U. S. rearmament program, many legislators have declared themselves in favor of the plan.

Several senators said they understood that both Mr. Truman and Defense Secretary Johnson have told American Legion officials they favor top priority for UMT as soon as action on the emergency legislation now before Congress is completed.

Passage is believed virtually assured once it is presented.

Craig said that an American Legion study has turned up these facts about UMT:

1. Under UMT it would cost $1,776 per man for a 13-week basic training course.

2. Between 600,000 and 750,000 men would be called annually under UMT.

3. It would take at least 200,000 officers to train the men who came under UMT each year.

4. On the basis of 600,000 men, UMT would cost about one billion, 65 million, 600 thousand dollars a year.

Craig said that this cost apparently was what had caused Congress to pass over UMT in past sessions.

WORTHLESS WITHOUT TEETH

Congress Seen Leaning Toward Stringent Curbs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—Administration leaders on both sides of Capitol Hill face fights today to get the comparatively mild curbs advocated by President Truman against spies, saboteurs and subversives.

There seemed to be a growing force in both houses leaning toward the theory that the controls should be much more stringent than those sought by the President.

In the Senate, Chairman McCarran (D) Nev., of the judiciary committee, bluntly declared that "no legislation is worth a plugged nickel unless it has teeth in it."

The House UnAmerican Activities Committee is expected to act on legislation following the stringent principles of the Mundt-Ferguson Bill, which is opposed by Mr. Truman.

That measure would set up a subversive activities control board; require the registration of Communists; label Communist-sponsored literature, broadcasts and telecasts; and tighten security regulations for government employees.

In addition, the committee may tack on a bill by Chairman

Wood (D) Ga., which bars Communists from government jobs and from defense plants operating under government contracts.

On the Senate side, the judiciary committee may act on a new bill by McCarran which wraps up the Mundt-Ferguson Bill along with half a dozen other anti-subversive measures.

That legislation caught administration forces flat-footed last week. McCarran introduced it after the President sent a message to Congress asking for milder controls over potential fifth columnists.

Sheriff Keeps Unnecessary Vigil By Meter

Sheriff Charles Radcliff Monday waited near a parking meter on East Main street to capture an alleged auto "thief."

"Turned out the fellow I was waiting for was no thief and the car wasn't stolen," the sheriff chuckled later.

Radcliff said he received a report early Monday that a South Bloomfield car was missing, and that he spotted the car later at a parking meter.

"The meter had money in it," the sheriff said, "and I figured that if the fellow would put money in the meter he would come back for the car."

He did, but then I found out that the car was owned by one of the boys who left for Camp Atterbury Sunday with the National Guards and that he had given this other boy permission to use the car."

The sheriff said that the man had reclaimed the car before the meter time ran out.

Beggar Calls Cab After Paying Fine

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—Thomas Vargas, 70-year-old blind man, told Judge Jacob M. Braude yesterday he had begged all over the country for six years to pay for an operation on his eyes.

Judge Braude, however, fined him $60 for begging, and Vargas promptly peeled off three $20 bills from a $768 bankroll.

Then Vargas, tapping his white cane, made his way to the police desk where he asked Police Sgt. Martin to call a cab and sped off to his hotel.

MAJOR FEATURES APPROVED

$5 Billion Farm Coop Stop-Gap Tax Planned

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—The Senate Finance Committee plans to decide today whether to include a provision for taxing farm cooperatives in a $5 billion stop-gap tax.

The committee will resume its closed-door meetings with a view to getting the bill ready for Senate action the latter part of the week.

Chairman George (D) Ga., said all remaining questions should be disposed of and the bill finally reported to the Senate Wednesday or Thursday.

Senate Majority Leader Lucas (D) Ill., intends to call it up immediately after the Senate passes the controls bill. It is expected to approve this measure Friday.

The present timetable calls for Senate passage of the tax bill next week. This would prepare the way for final passage by Congress by Labor Day.

The committee has already approved the major features of the tax measure. They are:

1. A three-billion dollar a year increase in individual income taxes and a boost in the withholding tax rate of from 15 to 18 percent, effective Oct. 1.

2. A 1.5 billion dollar annual increase in corporation income taxes involving a hike in the maximum levy of from 38 to 45 percent, retroactive to last July 1.

3. Various "loophole closing" provisions and a 10 percent manufacturers' excise tax on television sets and deep freezers.

AMONG THE questions still to be settled is a proposal for taxing tax-exempt farm cooperatives at the corporation income tax rates unless they distribute their earnings to members.

This would make the earnings taxable in the hands of the members at the regular individual income tax rates. Complaints have been made that some tax-exempt farm cooperatives do millions of dollars of business a year and fail to distribute their earnings.

Sen. Williams (R) Del., has offered an amendment to tax farm cooperatives at the corporation rates unless they distribute their earnings to members in cash.

An alternative proposal, said to have the support of some farm leaders, would tax cooperatives at corporation rates unless they gave their members script or certificates representing accumulated earnings.

This paper would be taxable in the hands of members but the cooperatives would retain the funds.

Some Finance Committee members said the farm cooperative question may be postponed for consideration in connection with the second tax increase bill, due to come before Congress after the November elections.

They pointed out that the committee has held no hearings on the plans now being considered.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 14—The United States plans to shatter the Soviet claim in U. N. that the North Koreans have only left-over Russian tanks and weapons by revealing contrary evidence in a second report from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The American U. N. delegation expects to have the new report on Korea from the unified command in a day or two, leaving it to France's Jean Chauvel to take the lead in the security council this afternoon in blasting away at Russian Chairman Jacob Malik.

Swinging into the third week of his running battle with the Western council members, Malik can be counted on again to fire back that the Anglo-American team is slandering Russia when it accuses his government of supplying highly modern tanks, weapons and planes to the North Korean aggressors.

Last week, Malik denounced U. S. Chief Delegate Warren R. Austin for insinuating that the Soviet Union is active instigator and supporter of the North Korean "zombie" regime and its armed might. Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb seconded that statement. Malik called it "dirty slander" and barked back that all Russian equipment in the hands of the North Koreans was war material left behind when the Soviet troops ended their Korean occupation last year or was "sold" to them at the time.

Not only is the new MacArthur report expected to give evidence to the council of Russian weapons of latest manufacture in North Korean hands, but the U. N. commission in Korea is seeking also proof that Russia is continuing to give war supplies to the Korean Communists.

The United States and other powers in the council, far from knocking down or flinching from further rounds with Malik, intend to make the most of the remainder of August to expose Russian tactics and propaganda onslaughts against the Western world to public judgment.

All-Out Red Attack Is Expected

Enemy Masses 65,000 Troops

TOKYO, Aug. 15—(Tuesday)—Counter-attacking U. S. forces annihilated 700 to 800 Red troops that crossed the Nakdong near Waegwan Monday and hurled enemy bridgehead units back more than a mile toward the river below vital Taegu.

These successes in two crucial sectors northwest and south of the Taegu front-line hub were announced as U. S. Marines on Korea's south coast occupied strategic heights southeast of Chinju after a net 12-mile advance.

General Douglas MacArthur announced early Tuesday that 1,000 Communist troops were believed to be under attack behind "Task Force Kean" in the southern American drive against Chinju.

The American successes in the Taegu sector coincided with grinding advances by United Nations forces pressing a counter-drive on the east coast aimed at recapture of the port of Pohang.

But principal attention was riveted on the 30-mile Nakdong sector between the Waegwan and Changnyong areas where the Reds were estimated to have massed more than 65,000 troops—out of their total of perhaps 130,000 to 164,000.

AN ALL-OUT enemy attempt to smash the "no retreat" Nakdong line at Waegwan Taegu was expected momentarily.

As of Monday night, the latest Korean battle developments were:

Northwest sector:—The U. S. First Cavalry Division's Seventh Regiment and supporting tanks, artillery and planes were credited officially with having "annihilated" 700 to 800 Red troops that crossed to the Nakdong's east bank just below Waegwan. The latter is 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

West sector:—U. S. 24th Division Infantry, supported by tanks and planes, drove the North Korean Fourth Division back 2,000 yards—more than a mile—in a major counter-push designed to knock out the enemy's only established bridgehead across the Nakdong.

Noisy Truck Campaign Here Is Increased

Circleville police stepped up its campaign against noisy trucks last weekend by arresting four violators.

Bonds of $10 each were posted during the weekend by James Bridges, 33, of Charlotte, N. C.; Ben McEntire, 26, of Winston Salem, N. C.; David Simmons, 26, of Columbus; and John Payne, 25, of Black Fork.

The four truck drivers were arrested on Court street by Officers Harold Green and Carl Thompson.

McEntire also posted $5 bond for running a stop light at Court and Main streets.

Meanwhile, police arrested 12 other persons during the period for violations ranging from drunken driving to reckless operation.

Joe Ford, 16, an escapee from Lancaster Boys' Industrial School, was taken into custody on West Mound street here early Monday for allegedly stealing an auto.

Officer Harold Green said the youngster was found in possession of an auto stolen from Mildred Denny of Lancaster. He was released later to BIS authorities.

Two persons were arrested for drunken driving during the period, one was held for being in actual physical control of his auto while drunk, three were arrested for crashing stop lights, one was held for reckless operation, two were arrested for passing in non-passing zones and another two persons were arrested for intoxication.

U.S. May Never Stockpile Dread Hydrogen Bomb

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—Congressional sources reported today that the United States may never engage in mass production and stockpiling of the dread hydrogen (hell) bomb.

The information coincided with an atomic scientist's report that U. S. development of the super-bombs could boomerang.

Congressional sources said that President Truman's go-ahead decision on production awaits completion and testing of the first hydrogen bomb.

Military officials have advised the joint congressional atomic bomb committee that undisclosed targets have been selected on which the H-bomb could be dropped with satisfactory military results.

Simultaneously, the foreign policy association issued a report entitled "the H-bomb and world order" by Dr. Hanes A. Bethe, former official at the Los Alomas atomic laboratory, wrote that development of such weapons "would be useful only against the largest targets — of which there are very few in the U.S.S.R."

THE PROFESSOR added: "The time will come when both the U. S. and the U.S.S.R. will have H-bombs."

"Then this country will be much more vulnerable than the U. S. S. R. We have many more (Continued on Page Two)

Administration Blamed For War By Republicans

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—Republicans on the senate foreign relations committee today blamed the Korean war on what they said was the Administration's failure to recognize the world conquest aims of Russia.

Chairman Connally (D) Tex., replied that the charge was a political one "patently intended to influence the coming elections."

The split in the committee raised a new threat to an already strained bi-partisan foreign policy.

The Republican statement, a major declaration and the first of its kind since the start of the Korean war, charged that America's leaders "threw away" in 1945 the victory it achieved in World War II and the initiative for peace which this country then had.

The declaration called for rearmament of the free world at "top speed" to put this country in a position where it could once more lead a world drive for peace.

All-Out Red Attack Is Expected

Enemy Masses 65,000 Troops

TOKYO, Aug. 15—(Tuesday)—Counter-attacking U. S. forces annihilated 700 to 800 Red troops that crossed the Nakdong near Waegwan Monday and hurled enemy bridgehead units back more than a mile toward the river below vital Taegu.

These successes in two crucial sectors northwest and south of the Taegu front-line hub were announced as U. S. Marines on Korea's south coast occupied strategic heights southeast of Chinju after a net 12-mile advance.

General Douglas MacArthur announced early Tuesday that 1,000 Communist troops were believed to be under attack behind "Task Force Kean" in the southern American drive against Chinju.

The American successes in the Taegu sector coincided with grinding advances by United Nations forces pressing a counter-drive on the east coast aimed at recapture of the port of Pohang. But principal attention was riveted on the 30-mile Nakdong sector between the Waegwan and Changnyong areas where the Reds were estimated to have massed more than 65,000 troops — out of their total of perhaps 130,000 to 164,000.

AN ALL-OUT enemy attempt to smash the "no retreat" Nakdong line and overwhelm Taegu was expected momentarily.

As of Monday night, the latest Korean battle developments were:

Northwest sector:—The U. S. First Cavalry Division's Seventh Regiment and supporting tanks, artillery and planes were credited officially with having "annihilated" 700 to 800 Red troops that crossed to the Nakdong's east bank just below Waegwan. The latter is 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

West sector:—U. S. 24th Division Infantry, supported by tanks and planes, drove the North Korean Fourth Division back 2,000 yards—more than a mile—in a major counter-push designed to knock out the enemy's only established bridgehead across the Nakdong.

Circleville police stepped up its campaign against noisy trucks last weekend by arresting four violators.

Bonds of $10 each were posted during the weekend by James Bridges, 33, of Charlotte, N. C.; Ben McEntire, 26, of Winston Salem, N. C.; David Simmons, 26, of Columbus; and John Payne, 25, of Black Fork.

McEntire also posted $5 bond for running a stop light at Court and Main streets.

Meanwhile, police arrested 12 other persons during the period for violations ranging from drunken driving to reckless operation.

Joe Ford, 16, an escapee from Lancaster Boys' Industrial School, was taken into custody on West Mound street here early Monday for allegedly stealing an auto.

Officer Harold Green said the youngster was found in possession of an auto stolen from Mildred Denny of Lancaster. He was released later to BIS authorities.

Two persons were arrested for drunken driving during the period, one was held for being in actual physical control of his auto while drunk, three were arrested for crashing stop lights, one was held for reckless operation in non-passing zones and another two persons were arrested for intoxication.

All-Out Red Attack Is Expected

Changnyong, 23 miles south of Taegu.

South sector:—First Marine Division troops dashed forward 15 miles into Sachon, seven miles south of the big Red anchor base of Chinju, then drew back three miles and took possession of their real objective—a series of valuable heights.

Northeast sector:—South Korean army spearheads, supported by U. S. tanks, guns and planes, achieved "some progress" in counter-blasts designed to drive the invaders out of Pohang. U. S. troops clung to a fighter base six miles southeast of Pohang after the U. S. Air Force evacuated the strip.

North sector:—Communist units were reported within 33 miles north of Taegu as allied planes pounded the enemy pressing against South Korean troops in that sector. Here the Red tanks were reported "thinned out," as the foe shifted forces down to the Nakdong sectors defended by the U. S. First Cavalry and 24th Divisions.

GENERAL MacArthur's communique said the enemy was continuing to reinforce the Changnyong bridgehead.

He said the American forces pushed the Red bridgehead troops back 1,000 yards but front dispatches telling of later action reported a gain of 2,000 yards. MacArthur said one enemy tank was inside the bridgehead.

On the east coast, MacArthur said, American and South Korean forces engaged what was believed to be the Red 12th division west of the town of Pohang.

He said the town itself was held by 200 Red regulars and an unknown number of guerrillas. The airfield six miles southeast of Pohang was still in United Nations hands.

A Monday night U. S. 8th army communique and subsequent front dispatches told of the jolting American counter-attacks in the two Nakdong sectors, about 30 miles apart.

The First Cavalry's Seventh Regiment fought hand-to-hand, using rifle-butts, bayonets, knives and even their fists to exterminate the Red forces that crossed the Nakdong near Waegwan.

Some sectors of the battlefield were described as "piled high" with enemy dead and that "many more" Communists were drowned in the Nakdong river while trying to flee back across to the west bank. American tanks, field guns and low-sweeping planes were credited with taking the "heaviest toll" of the enemy forces.

Fire Causes $200 Damage To Davis Home

Damage estimated at $200 was caused by a fire at 10:30 p. m. Sunday in the kitchen of the James Davis home in Jackson Township.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said the Davis family was in Circleville at the time the fire must have started. They discovered the blaze on their return.

The chief said the blaze burned a large hole in the floor of the kitchen, as well as destroying a portion of the ceiling and furniture.

Cause of the fire was not determined. Wise said Davis had no insurance on his household goods, although the building was ing the new weapon, a communique said.

"Tiny Tim" rockets and napalm fire bombs were used in "working over" five trains.

In the vicinity of Haeju, near the 38th parallel boundary, smoke from two burning fuel oil trains was visible for more than 60 miles.

Three more trains got the same treatment at Sinanju, above the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, with "major damage to all," according to the official bulletin.

"Tiny Tim" also got the credit for knocking out a bridge at Chungju, on one of the main supply lines to the battlefield.

WHILE NAVY pilots were hitting communication lines, Far East Air Force and Australian planes devoted "primary attention" to "direct support" of American and South Korean ground troops fighting Communist forces on the west central and northeast sectors.

The communique declared these planes "laid down a constant barrage of machinegun and rocket fire directed at North Korean equipment and troop concentrations along the Nakdong River and in the Pohang-Kigye-Yongdok sector to the northeast."

Similar close support on the southwest sector was provided by carrier based marine planes, operating under control of the Fifth Air Force and receiving target instructions from Air Force ground and air control units.

Meanwhile B-29 superforts staged what was termed a cleanup raid on the big chemical plant at Hungnam. Large sections of the vital installation in North Korea were devastated by previous strikes Aug. 3 and Aug. 12. Sunday's smash was directed at "remote portions" of the plant still rated as operational.

Superforts also hit at key bridges, particularly the west railroad bridge at Seoul which has undergone severe damage in many previous strikes.

The span is a vital part of the main west coast supply route for the North Koreans, who have rushed to repair the bridge after each previous attack.

Local Guard Unit Leaves For Camp

Five Persons Given Emergency Treatment

A total of five persons were given emergency treatment last weekend in Berger hospital.

Mrs. Emma Howard of 116 West Franklin street was treated for a dislocated right shoulder following a fall in her home Sunday night. Hospital attaches said the woman tripped over a footstool. She was returned to her home Monday.

Paul Stevens Jr., 21, of 434 East Union street suffered a sprained right foot, when he tumbled from a straw rick Sunday while working at Circleville Container Corp., attaches said. He was released following treatment.

Henry Mahlon, 30, of Kingston, was treated for an injured right foot suffered in a fall in his home Saturday night.

William Fowler of Huston street suffered a hand injury while working Sunday in Circleville Container Corp. Attaches said the man punctured the hand with a rusty nail.

Last of the emergency cases treated was Henry Styers, 40, of 957 South Pickaway street, who suffered a lacerated little finger on his left hand Saturday while working in the Esmeralda Canning Co. He reportedly injured the finger while working on a can filling machine.

Court Decree Ends Marriage

Divorce decree to end a two-year-old marriage has been awarded to Evelyn R. Giffin in Pickaway County common pleas court.

The wife was granted the divorce and custody of the couple's 10-month-old child when the court found Paul Giffin guilty of gross neglect of duty.

In addition to the divorce and custody of the child, the wife was granted $5 per week for support of the youngster and the husband was ordered to pay court costs.

Knight Forced To Make Choice

A love story set in the days "when knighthood was in flower"—the story of a dashing young Englishman who travels from his native land to the far-away courts of Khubilai Khan—opens in this edition of The Circleville Herald.

Titled "The Black Rose," this story was written by Thomas Costain. Major problem in the tale is the choice the adventurous Walter of Gurnie must make between two women—an English noblewoman and a slave girl from the East.

H-Bomb Stockpiling

large cities that would be inviting targets, and many of these lie near the coast so that they could be reached by submarine and perhaps a relatively short-range rocket.

"I think it is therefore correct to say that the existence of the hydrogen bomb will give us military weakness rather than strength."

An informed congressional source explained:

"The important question for the President, in consultation with joint chiefs of staff and others, to decide is whether it is worthwhile to sacrifice A-bombs, which are now in mass production, for H-bombs.

He further explained that while it is true the H-bomb is a far more destructive weapon than the A-bomb, the latter is so destructive in itself that there is doubt whether there is any point in producing bombs that are more destructive."

A military informant stated that whatever the decision on the production of H-bombs, it will probably be motivated by military necessity and not humane considerations. The prime consideration involved is whether H-bombs should be produced at the expense of A-bombs.

Congress has been asked to appropriate 260 million dollars for the construction of new facilities in which the H-bomb will be manufactured. Furthermore, congressional sources reported that the Atomic Energy Commission is planning to expand its production of A-bombs and will probably request another half-billion dollars or so for that purpose.

DEATHS

and Funerals

WILLIAM BROWN
William F. Brown, 70, of Huntington Township, Ross County, died by hanging at his residence at 2:50 p. m. Saturday. He had been in ill health three years.

Dr. Robert Oliver, Ross County coroner, delivered a verdict of death by suicide following investigation.

Mr. Brown was born May 12, 1880, in Kentucky, son of Frank and Sarah Johnson Brown. He lived in Circleville and worked as a street cleaner until the death of his wife, Etta Pennington Brown, in 1947.

Surviving him are two sons, James Brown of Ison, Miss., and William Brown of Ft. Madison, Ia.; two daughters, Mrs. Ethel Crosby of Circleville and Mrs. Gertrude Artrip of Chillicothe Route 7; nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Tuesday in the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. James Rinehart officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

Friends may call in the funeral home.

MRS. LOU ALVIS

Mr. Lou Alvis of 393 East 11th street, Columbus, died in her home at 6 a. m. Monday. Survivors include a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Alvis of Columbus. The daughter-in-law is the former Minida Lyle of East Mound street. Burial will be in Bluefield, Va.

Health Head Attends Meeting

Pickaway County Health Commissioner Dr. A. D. Blackburn attended a committee meeting on cerebral palsy Sunday in Chillicothe.

Dr. Blackburn, chairman of the Circleville BPO Elks committee in the Ohio Elks Association-sponsored program, said that a campaign for raising funds for the program was set up during the meeting.

"We saw an excellent motion picture on the work being done in the Columbus Spastic Clinic," said the doctor.

Blackburn was the lone representative from Circleville during the meeting.

pass the House-passed measure in its present form.

AS IT NOW stands, the bill gives President Truman the power to impose price, wage and rationing controls when and to whatever degree he sees fit. It also gives him other powers to allocate and requisition materials, encourage defense production and control credit.

Republican Policy Leader Taft has opposed the bill, asserting that Congress should keep the controls power for itself. He has won little active support, however, and two other party leaders—Wherry and Sen. Millikin, Colo.—predicted he will lose his fight.

Wherry and Millikin pointed out that they were not supporting the administration bill, and said they might support Taft, but they saw no prospect of his winning sufficient backing to overcome the administration plan.

Leaders of a "liberal" Republican wing supporting full control powers for the President are Sens. Ives, N. Y., and Morse, Ore.

At least one Democratic effort will be made to modify the bill before the final vote comes. Sen. Fulbright (D) Ark., has announced that he will attempt to "trigger" the imposition of controls to the cost-of-living.

According to his plan—which Taft has indicated he will support if his own idea is defeated—neither the President nor Congress will make the final decision. It will be left to the cost-of-living index prepared by the Bureau of Labor statistics.

Another modification attempt—and one that may win considerable support among the Senate's conservatives—will be made by Sen. Capehart (R) Ind. He wants to trim the two-year bill down to one year, making it expire Aug. 31, 1951.

ing the new weapon, a communique said.

"Tiny Tim" rockets and napalm fire bombs were used in "working over" five trains.

In the vicinity of Haeju, near the 38th parallel boundary, smoke from two burning fuel oil trains was visible for more than 60 miles.

Three more trains got the same treatment at Sinanju, above the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, with "major damage to all," according to the official bulletin.

"Tiny Tim" also got the credit for knocking out a bridge at Chungju, on one of the main supply lines to the battlefield.

WHILE NAVY pilots were hitting communication lines, Far East Air Force and Australian planes devoted "primary attention" to "direct support" of American and South Korean ground troops fighting Communist forces on the west central and north-east sectors.

The communique declared these planes "laid down a constant barrage of machinegun and rocket fire directed at North Korean equipment and troop concentrations along the Nakdong River and in the Pohang-Kigye-Yongdok sector to the northeast."

Similar close support on the southwest sector was provided by carrier based marine planes, operating under control of the Fifth Air Force and receiving target instructions from Air Force ground and air control units.

Meanwhile B-29 superforts staged what was termed a cleanup raid on the big chemical plant at Hungnam. Large sections of the vital installation in North Korea were devastated by previous strikes Aug. 3 and Aug. 12. Sunday's smash was directed at "remote portions" of the plant still rated as operational.

Superforts also hit at key bridges, particularly the west railroad bridge at Seoul which has undergone severe damage in many previous strikes.

The span is a vital part of the main west coast supply route for the North Koreans, who have rushed to repair the bridge after each previous attack.

Local Guard Unit Leaves For Camp

Co. I, 166th Infantry, Circleville's National Guard unit, left Circleville at 6 a. m. Sunday for a stiff summer training course in Camp Atterbury, Ind.

Only one member of the Circleville training trip. He claimed that he had confused the orders. He is expected to join the unit later.

The local unit left Circleville aboard two buses for Ft. Hayes, Columbus, where it transferred onto a train bound for the camp. Jack Clifton, commander of the company, said the unit will be subjected to a stiff training program until late August. The group is to return here Aug. 27.

Five Persons Given Emergency Treatment

A total of five persons were given emergency treatment last weekend in Berger hospital.

Mrs. Emma Howard of 116 West Franklin street was treated for a dislocated right shoulder following a fall in her home Sunday night. Hospital attaches said the woman tripped over a footstool. She was returned to her home Monday.

Paul Stevens Jr., 21, of 434 East Union street suffered a sprained right foot, when he tumbled from a straw rick Sunday while working at Circleville Container Corp., attaches said. He was released following treatment.

Henry Mahlon, 30, of Kingston, was treated for an injured right foot suffered in a fall in his home Saturday night.

William Fowler of Huston street suffered a hand injury while working Sunday in Circleville Container Corp. Attaches said the man punctured the hand with a rusty nail.

Last of the emergency cases treated was Henry Styers, 40, of 957 South Pickaway street, who suffered a lacerated little finger on his left hand Saturday while working in the Esmeralda Canning Co. He reportedly injured the finger while working on a can filling machine.

Court Decree Ends Marriage

Divorce decree to end a two-year-old marriage has been awarded to Evelyn R. Giffin in Pickaway County common pleas court.

The wife was granted the divorce and custody of the couple's 10-month-old child when the court found Paul Giffin guilty of gross neglect of duty.

In addition to the divorce and custody of the child, the wife was granted $5 per week for support of the youngster and the husband was ordered to pay court costs.

Knight Forced To Make Choice

A love story set in the days "when knighthood was in flower"—the story of a dashing young Englishman who travels from his native land to the far-away courts of Khublai Khan—opens in this edition of The Circleville Herald.

Titled "The Black Rose," this story was written by Thomas Costain. Major problem in the tale is the choice the adventurous Walter of Gurnie must make between two women—an English noblewoman and a slave girl from the East.

large cities that would be inviting targets, and many of these lie near the coast so that they could be reached by submarine and perhaps a relatively short-range rocket.

"I think it is therefore correct to say that the existence of the hydrogen bomb will give us military weakness rather than strength."

An informed congressional source explained:

"The important question for the President, in consultation with joint chiefs of staff and others, to decide is whether it is worthwhile to sacrifice A-bombs, which are now in mass production, for H-bombs.

He further explained that while it is true the H-bomb is a far more destructive weapon than the A-bomb, the latter is so destructive in itself that 'there is doubt whether there is a any point in producing bombs that are more destructive.'

A military informant stated that whatever the decision on the production of H-bombs, it will probably be motivated by military necessity and not humane considerations. The prime consideration involved is whether H-bombs should be produced at the expense of A-bombs.

Congress has been asked to appropriate 260 million dollars for the construction of new facilities in which the H-bomb will be manufactured. Furthermore, congressional sources reported that the Atomic Energy Commission is planning to expand its production of A-bombs and will probably request another half-billion dollars or so for that purpose.

Executrix Named To Funk Estate

Josephine Jolley of Circleville has been appointed executrix to the estimated $2,900 Elizabeth Funk estate in Pickaway County probate court.

According to the will of the estate, household goods, a house and lot at 361 East Ohio street are to go to Elizabeth Essick, a granddaughter, for life. The remainder, according to the will, is to revert to four children; Frances Hess, Josephine Jolley, Barbara Storer and Roy Reeser.

DEATHS and Funerals

WILLIAM BROWN

William F. Brown, 70, of Huntington Township, Ross County, died by hanging at his residence at 2:50 p. m. Saturday. He had been in ill health three years.

Dr. Robert Oliver, Ross County coroner, delivered a verdict of death by suicide following investigation.

Mr. Brown was born May 12, 1880, in Kentucky, son of Frank and Sarah Johnson Brown. He lived in Circleville and worked as a street cleaner until the death of his wife, Etta Pennington Brown, in 1947.

Surviving him are two sons, James Brown of Ison, Miss., and William Brown of Ft. Madison, Ia.; two daughters, Mrs. Ethel Crosby of Circleville and Mrs. Gertrude Artrip of Chillicothe Route 7; nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Tuesday in the Defense Working Funeral Home with the Rev. James Rinehart officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

Friends may call in the funeral home.

MRS. LOU ALVIS

Mr. Lou Alvis of 393 East 11th street, Columbus, died in her home at 6 a. m. Monday. Survivors include a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Alvis of Columbus. The daughter-in-law is the former Minnie Lyle of East Mound street. Burial will be in Bluefield, Va.

Health Head Attends Meeting

Pickaway County Health Commissioner Dr. A. D. Blackburn attended a committee meeting on cerebral palsy Sunday in Chillicothe.

Dr. Blackburn, chairman of the Circleville BPO Elks committee in the Ohio Elks Association-sponsored program, said that a campaign for raising funds for the program was set up during the meeting.

"We saw an excellent motion picture on the work being done in the Columbus Spastic Clinic," said the doctor.

Blackburn was the lone representative from Circleville during the meeting.

Petition Seeks Marriage End

A petition seeking to end a six-year-old marriage has been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court by Guy McCann against Pearl A. McCann, both of Orient.

pass the House-passed measure in its present form.

AS IT NOW stands, the bill gives President Truman the power to impose price, wage and rationing controls when and to whatever degree he sees fit. It also gives him other powers to allocate and requisition materials, encourage defense production and control credit.

Republican Policy Leader Taft has opposed the bill, asserting that Congress should keep the controls power for itself. He has won little active support, however, and two other party leaders—Wherry and Sen. Millikin, Colo.—predicted he will lose his fight.

Wherry and Millikin pointed was married Nov. 17, 1943, in Circleville and has no children. The husband claims gross neglect of duty.

out that they were not supporting the administration bill, and said they might support Taft, but they saw no prospect of his winning sufficient backing to overcome the administration plan.

Leaders of a "liberal" Republican wing supporting full control powers for the President are Sens. Ives, N. Y., and Morse, Ore.

At least one Democratic effort will be made to modify the bill before the final vote comes. Sen. Fulbright (D) Ark., has announced that he will attempt to "trigger" the imposition of controls to the cost-of-living.

According to his plan—which Taft has indicated he will support if his own idea is defeated—neither the President nor Congress will make the final decision. It will be left to the cost-of-living index prepared by the Bureau of Labor statistics.

Another modification attempt—and one that may win considerable support among the Senate's conservatives—will be made by Sen. Capehart (R) Ind. He wants to trim the two-year billdown to one year, making it expire Aug. 31, 1951.

TV-Radio Programs

Programs listed in the following television log contain errors daily, the fault resting entirely with broadcasters and not with The Herald. Intent of this newspaper is to provide accurate information for subscribers, but finds this impossible so far as the three Columbus television stations are concerned. The programs printed are assembled from information sent out by the Columbus stations and are not to be regarded seriously. Complaints about inaccuracies in program listings should be made to the broadcasting stations and not to The Herald. Because of continuing inaccuracies, The Herald has been forced to delete all TV programs prior to 6 p. m. Radio programs are evening network listings.

Little Joe Says Senator Taft Is 'Most Confused'

COLUMBUS, Aug. 14 — State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson has termed "Sen. Taft the most confused man in America."

Referring to "Mr. Republican's" speech before the Ohio Republican Editorial Association dinner meeting in Columbus, the state auditor, who is opposing Taft's November reelection bid, declared:

"Taft claimed he is not making the Korean struggle an issue in his reelection campaign and then proceeds to make the Korean affair the main issue of his campaign speeches."

"This man says we invited the attack on Korea because the secretary of state made a statement that we would not defend the country in case of aggression. I don't know if anyone ever made that statement."

"But it was Senator Taft who vigorously opposed the Marshall Plan to aid Korea and other countries to repel Communism," Ferguson also lashed at Taft's opposition to wage and price controls "as another deceitful plan on his part to delay action while the profiteers are reaping a golden harvest."

Driver Arrested For Using Fist

COLUMBUS, Aug. 14—Donald Howell, 28, of Columbus, was to have been arraigned in municipal court today for hitting a pedestrian—not with his car, but with his fist.

David Duschanski, 27, also of Columbus, charged in an assault and battery suit yesterday that Howell struck him during an argument. The argument, he said, started after Howell narrowly missed striking him with his automobile.

Duschanski claimed he suffered a cut lip and broken denture in the scuffle.

What goes on at Station X?

Near the station are the homes of men who run the plant. Texas Eastern has built over a hundred new employee homes in the past year to house its growing staff and their families. These homes, necessary in a 24-hour-a-day business, are representative of Texas Eastern's permanent part in community life.

This metal and masonry building houses several thousand horsepower harnessed to compressors. At Station "X" electric power from the large transformers behind the building are used to run the machinery. Some stations use natural gas engines to pump the gas through the lines.

This concrete pit is the "scraper trap". Here the scrapers, or "pigs" as they are called, are put in and taken out of the pipe lines during periodic cleaning operations. "Pigs" are cylinders covered with wire brushes which are pushed through the lines by gas pressure.

From this motor-operated "header" valve natural gas enters compressor station pipes. Other valves route the gas to compressors, or through a by-pass line, or into the unique "scraper trap" as operations require from hour to hour. Station piping, simplified here, is a plumber's dream of heaven.

Before gas can enter the finely-machined compressors it must be thoroughly cleaned. Oil separators in these new horizontal "scrubbers" remove line-dirt from hundreds of million cubic feet of gas daily. It takes thousands of gallons of oil annually to do this.

Compressor stations are headquarters for maintenance crews on the Inch Lines. In this building are garages and shops for radio cars, trucks, repair equipment, pipe valves, machinery parts and the special tools needed to operate a natural gas pipe line.

Here is how the Inch Lines do their job in your county. Above is one of the 26 compressor stations which puts the push behind natural gas and carries it into ten states between Texas and New York.

Stations like this form the heart of Texas Eastern's 3,200-mile transmission system. They are the visible sign of the valuable work being done in every county on these great pipe lines. Each station is a little different because it is specially designed to do a specific job according to its location. The job of compressing gas and handling its flow in large volumes is a lot different from pumping liquids. It requires special equipment and know-how, and a plant the size of a factory.

The men who run this plant are your neighbors. The work they do day and night helps your county's progress and helps provide essential energy for our country which can be provided in no other way.

CIVIL WAR OR AGGRESSION

HERE IS what the Russian government newspaper Izvestia is telling its readers about the Korean War: "The government of the USA, which is conducting an aggressive, barbarous war against the Korean people, is trying to divert attention, with the purpose of finding ignorant, purblind, or deluded people who will believe on trust and who, to please the magnates of Wall Street, will call aggression the selfless struggle which the Korean people are waging for their national independence."

A lot of Russians will believe that, in spite of the efforts of the Voice of America to reach through Soviet jamming and get its message to them. But the Communist Daily Worker in New York reprints it. Is the Daily Worker acting on orders, or does it actually expect Americans, who hear both sides, to believe it too?

Izvestia makes a fancy legal point to the effect that a "civil war" is not aggression. Other nations have no more right to intervene in Korea, Izvestia claims in its three-column editorial, than they had to intervene in the U. S. Civil War.

But suppose that a great foreign power, in the course of a world war, had occupied the South and sealed it off from the world, refusing to admit impartial mediators seeking to reunite the two parts of this nation. Suppose that after five years during which all contact between North and South had been prevented, a great army had charged across the Mason and Dixon line to attack the North. Suppose that army was fully trained and heavily armed by the same great power.

Would that have been a civil war, or would it have been aggression? And would the world have any doubt that most of the guilt lay at the door of the great power that had kept the south captive and isolated for five years?

It is as simple as that.

DELAY AND DECEIT

RUSSIA'S principal weapons in the United Nations until now have been the veto, the walk-out, and the boycott. Now Jacob Malik, in his role as president of the Security Council for August, is trying out a new one—the stall. Malik is keeping the Council tied in knots on technical points of procedure, thus preventing any effective discussion of Korea.

He is also engaged in an even more important scheme, which uses the same parliamentary devices: He is trying to win back the support of the people of Asia and of all lovers of peace, which has been veering away from Russia since she undertook her Korean adventure.

Russia's tactics show how seriously concerned she is at losing, by her Korean move, one battle in the war for the mind of Asia. Subsequent sessions of the Security Council will determine whether Russia can get away with it.

Atomic Artillery Shells Feasible, Experts Sure
Russian War Not Near, Foreign Ministers Say

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Even military leaders who know the facts find it difficult to believe the recent developments in atomic energy. They say there no longer can be any doubt that atomic artillery shells weighing as little as 200 pounds can be built.

Yet these artillery-sized A-bombs for practical purposes will be as destructive as those that burst over Japan. There definitely are no small atomic explosions—all are in the city-destroyer class.

The prospect now is that, within two to five years, a B-36 bomber could deliver as many as two dozen "baby atom bombs" from a distance of 10,000 miles, and actually could take off with as many as 200 of them aboard.

Either load would certainly be far more destructive than the most fantastic hydrogen bomb that was ever dreamed up.

Military leaders do not question the ability of Soviet scientists but they say Russia will never match United States atomic production in quantity unless it finds a better source of uranium than Czechoslovakia.

Belgian Congo and Canadian uranium before the war was so much more plentiful that the Czech mines weren't even operating.

NO WAR—The foreign ministers of the Western Powers are confident that there will be no war with the Soviet Union in the near future. This optimistic news was presented to a group of congress-

These Days

It must be very discouraging, particularly to the young mind, to read the views of the acknowledged great, only to discover, in short order, that what they said and wrote is without foundation. The fallacy arises from the assumption that because a man develops competence in one field, he possesses knowledge and wisdom in all fields of human activity.

For instance, Albert Einstein is universally accepted as a great scientist; in fact, as a philosopher and cosmologist. These are tremendous words and his is a colossal intellect and personality. But in the field of politics, his views are rather the hopeful promptings of a poet. As regards Russo-American relations, it is provable from Einstein's statements that he has most often been not only wrong but misleading.

Similarly, Thomas Mann is acknowledged to be a leading novelist. He took refuge in this country from his native Germany because of his opposition to Hitler. That he never understood the United States or the spirit of the American people is demonstrable from his public utterances.

On his 75th birthday, Mann, speaking in Zurich, said:

"Therefore, in time the United States should take the initiative for a universal peace conference whose task would be an overall financing of millions of people. This would be humanistic Communism."

The "therefore" refers to a prior statement that every human being should be a moderate Socialist. The fallacy is that there is no moderate Socialism or, to use a more exact term, Marxism. This is a system of life, operating in the economic, social, political and intellectual fields, which leads inevitably to the breakdown of all restraints upon government and establishes a despotism over the will and life of the individual infinitely more complete than Hitler or Mussolini ever imagined possible.

Furthermore, Mann is naive about finances. Where is the money to come from for "an overall financing of millions of people"? And what millions of people?

This country's taxes and national debt are reaching dangerous dimensions and this novelist apparently never looks at a page of statistics to determine what is available for helping those who are weak, backward and incompetent—not always through no fault of their own.

And here is Frank Lloyd Wright, one of the world's greatest architects. He knows how to put up a building, but on June 8, in Spring Green, Wis., he said:

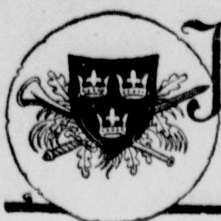

"We have nothing to fear in abandoning the atom arms race. Russia wants peace just as much as we do."

That was not true on June 8, 1950, or on any June 8 since 1943 (Teheran). Russia's opposition to the Baruch Plan in the United Nations, continuous for years; Russia's constant use of the veto to prevent the agencies of peace from functioning; Russia's boycott of the United Nations since Jan. 13; Russia's conquest of China—all these and more have established the fact that Soviet Russia does not "want peace just as much as we do." Actually, 17 days after Wright's speech, Soviet Russia ordered the Korean war to commence.

CHAPTER ONE

IT WAS growing late, and still there was no sign of Engaine. Could Ninian have been mistaken? A roke had settled in early that afternoon, and the rain dripped from the roofs of Oxford with a dismal insistence. Walter had placed himself under the entrance at St. Martin's, but the fear that he might miss her led him to venture out constantly around all the points of the Quadrivium. He was wet to the skin.

It would be two more years before Walter returned home to the university; if he did not catch a glimpse of Engaine now, he might never see her again.

Another hour passed. Walter shivered with the cold, very nearly convinced now that there would be no party riding through to Tressling. Then his heart gave a bound. A roar of hoofs sounded from the direction of the east, and a dozen or more riders on horseback came clomping over the cobbles. Under a heavy fur hood he saw the sparkle of the loveliest blue eyes in all the world. It was Engaine!

"Walter of Gurnie!" she cried. As usual there was more than a hint of mockery in her voice. "What do you here, good Walter?"

"I heard you were to ride through from London," he answered. "And you waited in this rain to see me?" Clearly she was much pleased. "I am very much flattered. But such devotion would more become one who strives to fit himself for the vows of knighthood, Sir Clerk."

Her father, the lord of Tressling, scowled at Walter. "The whelp of Gurnie!" he said, and indulged in a loud roar of laughter. Then he turned to his daughter. "How often, child, must I tell you this baseborn fellow is beneath your notice."

"The Gurnie strain is a nobler one than Tressling, my lord," Walter said. "We have held our land for more than five centuries." The lord of Tressling laughed again. "You crow loudly, my young cockerel, for one who can't claim an honest share of that noble blood," he said. "Come, girl, on with you! We must make Tressling if we ride all night." He turned to Walter. "Count yourself lucky I don't have my man Gullen here beat a proper respect into you, fellow. Stand back!"

Walter could no longer restrain himself. "I have no fear of Black Gullen nor of you, thief of Tressling!" he said. Engaine stiffened in her saddle and tossed her head. "Farewell, Toftman!" she cried.

Toftman! It was the supreme insult in Walter's ears. The fact that no more than a few beggarly tofts of land were left to Gurnie galled him as much as the cloud on his birth. He was stammering to find an answer when Engaine turned with one of her unpredictable shifts of mood.

"You are wet through, Walter," she said. "That cloak is too thin for such weather. You must change into dry clothes at once."

Walter walked back up the steps and entered the church. He sat down on the nearest bench in a mood of such overwhelming dejection that he lost all consciousness of time.

He had always known that his devotion to Engaine was hopeless. His grandfather had taken up arms with Simon de Montfort in the struggle against Old King Henry to enforce observance of the Great Charter. After the lost battle of Evesham, where great Earl Simon was killed, most of the lands of Gurnie were confiscated and given as a reward to the lord of Tressling who had fought (not too boldly, it was whispered) on the royal side. More than eight years had passed since then, eight years of poverty for his grandfather's household and of great prosperity for Tressling. The hatred between the two families had grown with the years. Walter's love for the heiress of the other house had, necessarily, been a matter that he tried to keep to himself.

If only the domain of Gurnie still stretched as nobly as before the Norman Conquest! If—

At the prompting of Old Harry's son, first crowned Edward the First, though absent at the last of the Crusades, many of the confiscated estates had been returned to their former owners. Walter's grandfather had been besieging the royal ministers with petitions for a reconsideration of his case, and the hope had never been abandoned that the rolling acres of Gurnie would be restored.

Walter wondered if he should write his grandfather, but decided, reluctantly, that he dare not break the rule which prohibited him from addressing the old man directly.

Night had settled down blackly over the dripping eaves of Oxford when Walter left the church. Here at Oxford, in 1273, life took on a stronger beat with the fall of darkness. The students issued forth filled with the prospect of adventure.

For two reasons Walter seldom went out with his fellows. The first was his desire to get on with his studies. He could hardly wait for the day when his knowledge of Latin and Greek, and the smattering of Arabic and Hebrew he was so painfully acquiring, could be put to practical use. Since the Crusades the eyes of men who needed to mend their fortunes had turned to the East. He wanted to hear the jingle of tower pounds in his pockets. He hoped a time would come when Engaine could no longer look at him with scorn.

The second reason was his intense sensitivity on the score of his birth. His fellow clerks at Buttermilk Hall had come to consider him a prickly sort of fellow. He regretted his unpopularity but seemed unable to do anything about it. His love of Oxford was almost fanatical; but he was not happy there.

When he reached the hospitium, he noticed that Ninian was reclining down his fur-lined hood from the wall. Ninian was privileged to wear this distinguishing mark of the nobility because his father was a warden on the Welsh border. Walter's father was an earl, but he himself was compelled nevertheless to wear a plain hood.

Ninian stalked over to where

Walter was standing. "I must have a talk with you, and I don't want these louts to hear. Come out with me."

Everything about him irked Walter: his assumption of superiority, above all else his standing with Engaine.

They began to descend the inside staircase and Ninian proceeded to tell his troubles.

"I have to confess that I'm disturbed about something I have heard. Engaine and I are first cousins, but it has always been understood in the two families that we would marry. Naturally I favor the match. She will come into all the holdings of Tressling, and then, of course, she is quite handsome and a gamesome little wench. I won't be able to match her in lands but I shall have the manors of Barlay from my mother's side and a goodish stretch of timber on the border. I am not a beggar exactly. And now I hear her drunken old father has other plans. A fatter fish is dangling on the line. What would you do in my case?"

"Who is this other suitor?" Walter asked.

"I am not sure. They are being very sly about it at Tressling. But, with an attempt at bluster, 'I have my suspicions, and I have no intention of stepping aside.'"

They reached the front door when they became aware that they had an audience. A loud laugh sounded from the Squint in the oak screens, and Humphrey Armstrong appeared from behind the screens, a broad grin under the round hat he wore as a full backer of arts. Armstrong, generally known as the Utterly Masterful Hump, was the acknowledged leader of the Hall. Several others followed him, Rob Wynter from the Fens and Ludar Fitzberg from Ireland, among them.

"Where to, my wag?" demanded Hump, slapping Ninian on the back.

Ninian was brimming over with gratification. "To Timothy-Two-Tunes!" he cried, recklessly. "Timothy will sing for us, and we'll have a pinch of fennel in our ale."

The tavern of Timothy-Two-Tunes was crowded when they arrived, mostly with university men of the more prosperous stripe. Walter walked to the other side of the room, where he found a seat on a wooden bench. He tried to catch Ninian's eye in the hope that the latter would now join him for their talk. What was this ominous story he had heard about Engaine?

A fatter fish dangling on the line! This could mean only that the lord of Tressling was planning an early marriage for his daughter and heiress.

A loud uproar had risen in the streets. Above the clamor of angry

Mrs. John W. Geary, 840 Ursuline St., New Orleans, La., says that life lately is sure wonderful—she didn't dream the world was such a fine place to live in. She thinks things look different—like she had just taken off dark glasses for the first time and saw things as they really are. She was suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin, which HADACOL supplies in generous quantities.

Here is Mrs. Geary's statement: "I had been sick for some time. It affected my stomach so much that I was unable to eat regularly, and lots of times I was unable to hold the food on my stomach. Then I heard about HADACOL. After the first few bottles I could tell a definite improvement. Now my stomach doesn't trouble me at all; I eat anything I want to and the most glorious thing is that my nerves are just as normal as can be. HADACOL is wonderful—it must be; it did so much for me. Thanks again to HADACOL." HADACOL Has Been a Blessing to thousands of folks whose systems were deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron. HADACOL can help you, too, if you will just give HADACOL a chance—if you suffer from stomach distress, nervousness, insomnia, constipation, aches and pains of neuritis, or a general run-down condition, caused by such deficiencies let HADACOL help you as it has helped others all over the country. Even hundreds of doctors are now recommending HADACOL to their patients suffering from such deficiencies.

Give remarkable HADACOL a chance to benefit you. Remember you have nothing to lose. HADACOL will make you feel great after the first few bottles you take, or your money will be refunded. Only $1.25 for Trial Size; Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50.

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

Government spending is getting so expensive the RFC has taken the "come and get it!" sign off the loan window.

The President has just nominated three men with tight pockets to the governing board and today you've got to offer something more than a receipted milk bill as security for a million dollar loan.

These fellows may even demand to see a bank book with deposits of at least 10 dollars.

So apparently the day is past when you could borrow $37 million to experiment with a metal house with no cellar, no fireplace and no production worth mentioning.

Today you couldn't even borrow $4 million to dream up a thousand dollar automobile in the $3 thousand price class.

But you've got to say one thing for the old RFC... in an age when we were worrying as individuals about saving our pennies they didn't worry any about spending our dollars.

Anyway we're still slaving for a rainy day.

Since the Crusades the eyes of men who needed to mend their fortunes had turned to the East. He wanted to hear the jingle of tower pounds in his pockets. He hoped a time would come when Engaine could no longer look at him with scorn.

The second reason was his intense sensitivity on the score of his birth. His fellow clerks at Butterbump Hall had come to consider him a prickly sort of fellow. He regretted his unpopularity but seemed unable to do anything about it. His love of Oxford was almost fanatical; but he was not happy there.

When he reached the hospitium, he noticed that Ninian was reaching down his fur-lined hood from the wall. Ninian was privileged to wear this distinguishing mark of the nobility because his father was a warden on the Welsh border. Walter's father was an earl, but he himself was compelled nevertheless to wear a plain hood.

Ninian stalked over to where

Walter was standing. "I must have a talk with you, and I don't want these louts to hear. Come out with me."

Everything about him irked Walter: his assumption of superiority, above all else his standing with Engaine.

They began to descend the inside staircase and Ninian proceeded to tell his troubles.

"I have to confess that I'm disturbed about something I have heard Engaine and I are first cousins, but it has always been understood in the two families that we would marry. Naturally I favor the match. She will come into all the holdings of Tressling, and then, of course, she is quite handsome and a gamesome little wench. I won't be able to match her in lands but I shall have the manors of Harlaw from my mother's side and a goodish stretch of timber on the border. I am not a beggar exactly. And now I hear her drunken old father has other plans. A fatter fish is dangling on the line. What would you do in my case?"

"Who is this other suitor?" Walter asked.

"I am not sure. They are being very shy about it at Tressling. But," with an attempt at bluster, "I have my suspicions, and I have no intention of stepping aside."

They reached the front door when they became aware that they had an audience. A loud laugh sounded from the Squire in the oak screens, and Humphrey Armstrong appeared from behind the screens, a broad grin under the hood that he wore as a full bachelor of arts. Armstrong, generally known as the Utterly Masterful Hump, was the acknowledged leader of the Hall. Several others followed him, Rob Wynter from the Pens and Ludar Fitzberg from Ireland, among them.

"Where to, my wag?" demanded Hump, slapping Ninian on the back.

Ninian was brimming over with gratification. "To Timothy-Two-Tunes!" he cried, recklessly. "Timothy will sing for us, and we'll have a pinch of fennel in our ale."

The tavern of Timothy-Two-Tunes was crowded when they arrived, mostly with university men of the more prosperous stripe. Walter walked to the other side of the room, where he found a seat on a wooden bench. He tried to catch Ninian's eye in the hope that the latter would now join him for their talk. What was this ominous story he had heard about Engaine? A fatter fish dangling on the line! This could mean only that the lord of Tressling was planning an early marriage for his daughter and heiress.

A loud uproar had risen in the streets. Above the clamor of angry

Mrs. John W. Geary, 840 Ursuline St., New Orleans, La., says that life lately is sure wonderful—she didn't dream the world was such a fine place to live in. She thinks things look different—like she had just taken off dark glasses for the first time and saw things as they really are. She was suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin, which HADACOL supplies in generous quantities.

Here is Mrs. Geary's statement: "I had been sick for some time. It affected my stomach so much that I was unable to eat regularly, and lots of times I was unable to hold the food on my stomach. Then I heard about HADACOL. After the first few bottles I could tell a definite improvement. Now my stomach doesn't trouble me at all; I eat anything I want to and the most glorious thing is that my nerves are just as normal as can be. HADACOL is wonderful—it must be; it did so much for me. Thanks again to HADACOL." HADACOL Has Been a Blessing to thousands of folks whose systems were deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron. HADACOL can help you, too, if you will just give HADACOL a chance—if you suffer from stomach distress, nervousness, insomnia, constipation, aches and pains of neuritis, or a general run-down condition, caused by such deficiencies let HADACOL help you as it has helped others all over the country. Even hundreds of doctors are now recommending HADACOL to their patients suffering from such deficiencies.

Give remarkable HADACOL a chance to benefit you. Remember you have nothing to lose. HADACOL will make you feel great after the first few bottles you take, or your money will be refunded. Only $1.25 for Trial Size; Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50. (C) 1950, The LeBlanc Corporation

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Government spending is getting so expensive the RFC has taken the "come and get it" sign off the loan window.

The President has just nominated three men with tight pockets to the governing board and today you've got to offer something more than a receipted milk bill as security for a million dollar loan.

These fellows may even demand to see a bank book with deposits of at least 10 dollars.

So apparently the day is past when you could borrow $37 million to experiment with a metal house with no cellar, no fireplace and no production worth mentioning.

Today you couldn't even borrow $4 million to dream up a thousand dollar automobile in the $3 thousand price class.

But you've got to say one thing for the old RFC. In an age when we were worrying as individuals about saving our pennies they didn't worry about spending our dollars.

Anyway we're still slaving for a rainy day.

Russian War Not Near,
Foreign Ministers Say

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Even military leaders who know the facts find it difficult to believe the recent developments in atomic energy. They say there no longer can be any doubt that atomic artillery shells weighing as little as 200 pounds can be built.

Yet these artillery-sized A-bombs for practical purposes will be as destructive as those that burst over Japan. There definitely are no small atomic explosions—all are in the city-destroyer class.

The prospect now is that, within two to five years, a B-36 bomber could deliver as many as two dozen "baby atom bombs" from a distance of 10,000 miles, and actually could take off with as many as 200 of them aboard.

Either load would certainly be far more destructive than the most fantastic hydrogen bomb that was ever dreamed up.

Military leaders do not question the ability of Soviet scientists but they say Russia will never match United States atomic production in quantity unless it finds a better source of uranium than Czechoslovakia.

Belgian Congo and Canadian uranium before the war was so much more plentiful that the Czech mines weren't even operating.

● NO WAR—The foreign ministers of the Western Powers are confident that there will be no war with the Soviet Union in the near future. This optimistic news was presented to a group of congressmen by State department officials during an informal gathering.

Rep. Henderson Lanham (D), Georgia, who was present, said this was the consensus of the foreign ministers of the Atlantic Pact nations during the recently-concluded London conference.

Lanham added that he had received information from other sources which led him to believe that Russian military power will reach its zenith in 1953-54, which will then become the "critical period."

In the meantime, he reported, it is the State department's policy to keep American military strength and industrial potential strong.

● BRADLEY'S "THINK" FORMULA—Gen. Omar N. Bradley told House and Senate foreign policy committees the other day about the routine he falls back on when confronted with a ticklish question. The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff explained:

"When I am faced with a decision on whether to continue an Army, Navy or Air Force program, I like to sit back in my office at the Pentagon and review the basic principles which initiated the program."

"If these are still valid, I next think over the successive actions we have taken during all phases of the program to see if there have been mistakes and if any changes are needed."

America's top military man said he next answers for himself two questions—should this project be continued and if so, how much should we put into it next year?

He said he followed this formula in coming to the decision the United States should give its cold war allies $1,222,500,000 in arms-aid in the next year.

● TRIPLE AIR PUNCH—The Navy is building up a triple punch for dealing with submarines from the air. It has three different types of planes designed to carry out three different types of attack on the underwater menace.

First, there is the Grumman AF Guardian, equipped with the latest electronic detection devices, which will aid in locating the enemy sub.

Then the Skyraiders—attack planes and the Avengers—torpedo bombers—will take over the offensive. If a sub is still lurking after these two groups get through, the Grumman will return with rockets and other anti-sub weapons.

Washington Grangers Told Ways To Fight Insecurity Effects

Work Said Best Relief

Dr. T. C. Allenbach, psychiatrist of University Service, Ohio State university told Washington grangers Friday night that grange work was one of the best ways to combat mental "disease" which is the result of insecurity. "Insecurity," he added, "breeds anxiety which makes mental illness."

Dr. Allenbach named the five security needs of a well-rounded personality. "They are," he said, "physical, economic, religious, social, political and vocational."

When Allenbach spoke of social security, he included the feeling of kinship with our fellow-man as well as family security. By political security he said he meant a government, such as ours, working for the best interests of its citizens. Concerning vocational security, he said it is useful that people feel their work is useful, that they are contributing something worthwhile to society.

Allenbach told his listeners that nothing was so important as our relationships with each other, "the atmosphere in which we rear our children."

"There are," he said, "no problem children, only problem parents." He further said girls in the Girls Industrial School in Marysville were basically good. Broken homes for the most part have caused the girls to get into trouble.

Psychiatrist Allenbach went on to say that nations are only individuals multiplied. Reactions of nations follow the fight or flight patterns that individuals follow.

Friday evening's program was under the supervision of the Home Economics Committee headed by Miss Ethel Brobst. Food and clothing exhibits were judged by Miss Mary Shortridge. Mrs. Ralph McDill won first place in the Oatmeal fruit bars contest. Mrs. Roy May won second place. Third and fourth place winners were Mrs. Loring Leist and Mrs. L. A. Best.

In the clothing division, consisting of a housecoat class, Miss Ethel May placed first, Mrs. Maynard Hulse second and Mrs. Edwin Leist third.

Also on the program was a playlet by juvenile grange members, "Our Doctors," under the direction of Mrs. William Thomas.

Miss Dorothy Glick presented selections of patriotic and popular music.

Refreshments were served to 75 members and guests.

At the business session conducted by worthy master, David Bolender, Thursday noon was set as the time of the picnic to be held in Rockhouse.

Huffman-Barr Wedding Held In Dayton

The aisleway of Westminster Presbyterian church in Dayton was lighted by candles tied with white satin streamers and decorated with huckleberry for the wedding of Miss Maxine Huffman and Richard I. Barr, Saturday evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Huffman of New Holland. The bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Barr of Dayton.

The marriage service was read by the Rev. W. James Westhafer.

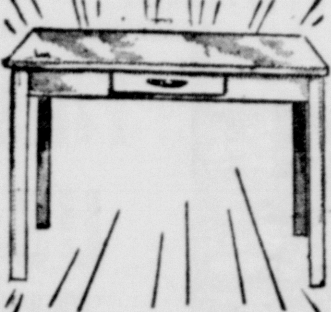

The bride wore a gown of imported marquisette fashioned with high sheer yoke and a wide berth. The long sleeves came to points over the bride's hands. The very bouffant skirt terminated in a long cathedral train. The two tiered veil of silk illusion was held in place by a tiara of pearlized orange blossoms. The bride's cascade bouquet was of white roses, carnations and babies breath.

Matron-of-honor, Mrs. Frances Johnson of Clarksburg, sister of the bride, wore yellow marquisette over taffeta made with fitted bodice, Peter Pan collar and floor length bouffant skirt. Matching mitts, net tiara and colonial bouquet completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Amos Watson of Chillicothe, also a sister of the bride was bride's matron in orchid marquisette of similar style. Mrs. Jacqueline Slinkard and Miss Alice Kesling, the two other attendants wore dresses of aqua and pink marquisette and carried colonial bouquets.

Bridegroom's brother, Roy M. Barr Jr. served as best man. Ushers included Amos Watson

Mr. and Mrs. Galen Mowery of Circleville Route 3 entertained at dinner Sunday the following relatives: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mowery and granddaughter of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Miller and family of Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hedges of Amanda; Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Bright of Tarleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Rife and niece and Miss Maykay Rife and Howard Rife of Ashville; thren church which will take place at 11:30 a. m. Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Morgan, Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sprouse and son, Robert and Mrs. George Barch of Circleville.

Do you suffer distress from Periodic FEMALE COMPLAINTS with NERVOUS feelings several days before? Do functional monthly ailments make you suffer pain, feel nervous, strangely restless, weak—at such times, or just before your period?

Then try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Pinkham's Compound has a soothing antispasmodic action on one of woman's most important organs. It not only relieves this monthly pain but also pre-period nervous, tense emotions of this nature. Regular use helps build up resistance against such female distress. Truly the woman's friend!

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

ITCH (Scabies) is highly contagious and will continue for life if not stopped. Its sole cause is the itch-mite which is immune to ordinary treatment. EXSORA kills the itch-mite almost instantly. Only three days EXSORA treatment is required. At all GALLAHER DRUG STORES.

TERMITES

Cause damage in excess of fifty million dollars annually for REPAIRS alone. These destructive pests work in secret and NOW have it exposed by an expert and be sure there is no your property is not infested they charge for the inspection, and if will tell you so. If termites are present you will be SHOWN and a fair price quoted for a treatment which is guaranteed for TEN YEARS.

Many irresponsible amateurs—self-styled "exterminators" and "pest men"—entomologists offer fantastic "guarantees" and bargain prices, but you owe it to yourself to be SURE you are securing the services of a thoroughly reliable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company whose guarantee really has a meaning.

An effective termite treatment must not only eliminate the termites now present in the structure, but also prevent the countless thousands of others, who live in the GROUND outside the house, from returning.

The almost unbelievable cunning of the termite makes the successful treatment of your property a job for those who have the proper equipment and the KNOW HOW. Further, because of the termites tenacity and persistence it is sometimes impossible to completely exterminate them with ONE treatment.

Therefore it is vital that the company doing the job be AVAILABLE later to return, if necessary. Unless you are SURE of this fact you may find yourself with a "Guarantee" but no one STILL IN BUSINESS to MAKE GOOD.

Always remember—a guarantee is only as good as the man who gives it.

We are local representatives of a reputable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company who are ACCREDITED MEMBERS OF THE OHIO PEST CONTROL ASSOCIATION.

TERMITES Cause damage in excess of fifty million dollars annually for REPAIRS alone. These destructive pests work in secret and may be destroying your property NOW. Have it inspected by an expert and be sure. There is no your property is not infested they charge for the inspection, and if it will tell you so. If termites are present you will be SHOWN and a fair price quoted for a treatment which is guaranteed for TEN YEARS.

Many irresponsible amateurs—self-styled "exterminators" and "part time" entomologists offer fantastic "guarantees" and bargain prices, but you owe it to yourself to be SURE you are securing the services of a thoroughly reliable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company whose guarantee really has a meaning.

An effective termite treatment must not only eliminate the termites now present in the structure, but also prevent the countless thousands of others, who live in the GROUND outside the house, from returning.

The almost unbelievable cunning of the termite makes the successful treatment of your property a job for those who have the proper equipment and the KNOW HOW. Further, because of the termites tenacity and persistence it is sometimes impossible to completely exterminate them with ONE treatment. Therefore it is vital that the company doing the job be AVAILABLE later to return, if necessary. Unless you are SURE of this fact you may find yourself with a "Guarantee" but no one STILL IN BUSINESS to MAKE GOOD.

Always remember—a guarantee is only as good as the man who gives it.

We are local representatives of a reputable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company who are ACCREDITED MEMBERS OF THE OHIO PEST CONTROL ASSOCIATION.

On May 31 and June 1, the bureau of the permanent committee of the World Peace Congress met in London. This is a wartime propagandistic arm of Soviet Russia and is the agency devoted to the Stockholm appeal (or pledge), which was designed to create a world-wide antagonism to the United States prior to the Korean war. The Russians were already preparing for that war then, even if the American intelligence services failed to discover it.

On May 29, a similar conference was held in Chicago, called "The Mid-Century Conference for Peace," which implored the American people to deprive their country of the atomic weapon. Four hundred prominent educators, trade union leaders and religious leaders are reported to have associated themselves with the Chicago meeting.

Dr. John Thompson, dean of the Rockefeller Chapel of Chicago university, and Prof. S. O. Kermit Eby of the same university are reported to have addressed the meeting.

All this makes no sense today while our boys are fighting in Korea, but it also made no sense in May and June. A situation of this magnitude does not develop overnight. This columnist has been writing about it since 1918 and about the current war since 1932. But on June 8, Wright could say that Russia wants peace just as much as we do.

Sunday's fracas differed only in score and in the team launching the gripes.

Stoutsville notched up a single in the second inning of the contest,

St. Louis Sells Hearn To Giants For $10,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—The current National League championship chase may very well go down in baseball history as the one in which the St. Louis Cardinals sold out the pennant for $10,000.

That's the figure returned to Fred Saigh's treasury last month by the New York Giants for one Jim Hearn, a righthander the Cardinals figured was all washed up.

The 27-year-old Georgia Tech alumnus has been far from a bust for the Durocher-men. He has been a rambling wreck as far as the rest of the league is concerned.

Hearn has won four low-hit games for the Giants, including three shutouts.

Big Jim's latest effort is the one that will have St. Louis singing the waiver blues the longest, although it helped them. Hearn blanked the pace-setting Philadelphia Phils, 2 to 0 on just four hits. Nothing new for Jim. He has taken the Phillies for a 6-0 record in his major league career.

TO GAIN THE victory the handsome righty had to best another Cardinal castoff, Lefty Ken Johnson.

The erratic southpaw issued only six hits to the Giants, but gave up seven passes and was generally in trouble.

A scratch single by Wes Westrum with the bases loaded in the fifth scored Hearn with the winning run. The Giants added another in the ninth on Eddie Stanky's triple and Don Mueller's single.

The Giant win, achieved without any of the brawling that marked Saturday's encounter, evened up the series at two games apiece.

Johnson suffered his first loss against four wins and the fight in Phils maintained their five game senior circuit lead.

The Giants stayed 2½ games behind the first-division Cards and Dodgers.

Brooklyn moved into third place ahead of St. Louis by stopping second-place Boston, 8 to 2 behind Erv Palica.

Cincinnati's Red moved into sixth place by edging the Cardinals, 3 to 2. A three run fifth inning which saw seven straight Cincy hits got Ken Raffensberger his eleventh win.

BOBBY ADAMS had a perfect day with four hits and drove in two of Cincinnati's runs.

The tail-end Pittsburgh Pirates drew the Chicago Cubs down into seventh place with a double licking. Cliff Chambers shook off a seven game losing streak to win the opener, 7 to 4. And Mel Queen five-hit the Cubs for a 2 to 0 blanking in the second game.

Ralph Kiner hit his 32nd homer and 200th of his five year major league career in the first game.

The Detroit Tigers had a doubleheader with the Browns postponed because of wet grounds but their American League lead didn't suffer.

Lefty Lou Brissie set the New York Yankees down on four hits, 5 to 2, for the Philadelphia Athletics. Paul Lehner's three-run homer off Vic Raschi in the seventh inning was the difference.

Detroit's lead stands at 3½ games.

The Yankees held second place by one percentage point as the Cleveland Indians split a pair with the Chicago White Sox. The Indians won the opener, 5 to 2, scoring all their runs in the eighth inning to gain Bob Feller his eleventh win.

Chicago got off to a five-run first inning in the nightcap and staggered in to a 7 to 5 triumph for Rae Scarborough.

A four run outburst in the sixth inning gave the Washington Senators a 6 to 5 win over the Boston Red Sox. The Sox fell eight games off the pace.

Top Hat Team Suffers Defeat By Butts Co.

Top Hat softball team suffered a 2-1 defeat at the hands of Butts Co. Sunday night in the finals of the district softball tournament in Chillicothe.

Sunday's loss gave the Top Hat team even footing in the district tournament with the Butts Co. The teams will meet at 7:30 p. m. Monday for the title tilt.

The Hatters had advanced into double-elimination in the tourney finals as champions of the winners bracket with 2-1 odds for winning the title. That is, they must be defeated twice before losing out.

Sunday's game leveled the odds to 50-50 between the two finalist teams. Winner of Monday's game will take the district title and will travel to Toledo Aug. 26 to compete in the state tournament.

Circleville opened the Sunday match with a 1-0 lead over Butts in the third inning, although losing out when Butts tallied two markers in the fifth frame to end scoring.

Losing Pitcher Stillman Morrison limited the Butts team to two hits in the fracas, while striking out four. Top Hat swatters collected three hits during the contest, losing out on two costly errors.

Monday's championship game was set ahead of 7:30 p. m. to permit the Hatters to play in the semi-finals of the Bremen invitational tournament at 9:15 p. m. Monday. The locals will meet Groveport in the Bremen match.

Semaphore Wave Is Outlawed

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 — The Eddie Stanky semaphore wave was outlawed today by Ford Frick and the National League president was expected to do the same with a New York Giant protest.

Manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants and Stanky were to meet with Frick today for a hearing on the Giant protest of last Saturday's game won by the Phils, 5 to 4.

The protest was lodged because Stanky was ejected from the game for attempting to distract a batter's attention by waving his arms in the batter's line of vision.

The league president ordered all his umpires yesterday to "immediately eject any player who engages in antics on the field designed or intended to annoy or disturb opposing batters."

In addition, Philadelphia's Andy Seminick and New York's Bill Rigney, principals in a fist fight in Saturday's game, were fined $25 each by Frick.

Oilers Slated To Meet Elks

Circleville Oil softballers are to meet Scioto Elks at 8 p. m. Monday in Ted Lewis Park to open this week's Circleville Night Softball League schedule.

Remainder of this week's card is Williamsport vs. Boyers at 8 p. m. Tuesday and Scioto Elks vs. Harpster and Yost at 8 p. m. Wednesday.

Brown's Halfback Search Ended

BOWLING GREEN, Aug. 14—Don "Dopey" Phelps, the likely answer to the Cleveland Browns' search for a breakaway halfback, must spend at least the next two days in the Bowling Green hospital as a result of a head injury.

The former Kentucky star, who raced 87 yards for a touchdown in the Browns' 38-7 exhibition victory over the Green Bay Packers Saturday night in Toledo, showed a slight concussion at the hospital last night.

Phelps said he does not even remember his spectacular sprint, the longest touchdown run ever made by a Cleveland player on a dash from scrimmage.

The speedster gained 124 yards Saturday night and looked like the quick breaking halfback Coach Paul Brown needs.

Beshore Slated To Box Charles

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 14—Freddie Beshore, who has been about to box Ezzard Charles for the latter's NBA heavyweight title since last January, is slated to discover tomorrow night that the wish was better than the fulfillment.

Tomorrow night, barring enough unforeseen happenings to put the insurance companies out of business, Beshore will fight Charles. This does not come with the big built-in guarantee, but that is what the sign says outside Memorial Auditorium.

What turned into the now-famous muscle scar over Charles' heart caused postponement of the Beshore affair first in February and then in March.

Championship Golf Meet Set

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 — Henry Ransom of St. Charles, Ill., and Detroit Professional Chick Harbert square off today in an 18-hole playoff to determine the winner of the "world championship of golf" at Chicago's Tam O'Shanter Country Club.

The playoff round was scheduled after Sponsor George S. May reversed a previous decision to hold a sudden death playoff in the event of a tie and heeded the request of the finalists reluctant to risk $6,000 on the play for one hole.

The victor in the playoff round will take $11,000 first prize money and a $5,000 second-place award will go to the loser.

PHILADELPHIA BLANKED

St. Louis Sells Hearn To Giants For $10,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—The current National League championship chase may very well go down in baseball history as the one in which the St. Louis Cardinals sold out the pennant for $10,000.

That's the figure returned to Fred Saigh's treasury last month by the New York Giants for one Jim Hearn, a righthander the Cardinals figured was all washed up.

The 27-year-old Georgia Tech alumnus has been far from a bust for the Durocher-men. He has been a ramblin' wrecker as far as the rest of the league is concerned.

Hearn has won four low-hit games for the Giants, including three shutouts.

Big Jim's latest effort is the one that will have St. Louis singing the waiver blues the longest, although it helped them.

Hearn blanked the pace-setting Philadelphia Phils, 2 to 0 on just four hits. Nothing new for Jim. He has taken the Phils for a 6-0 record in his major league career.

TO GAIN THE victory the handsome righty had to best another Cardinal castoff, Lefty Ken Johnson.

The erratic southpaw issued only six hits to the Giants, but gave up seven passes and was generally in trouble.

A scratch single by Wes Westrum with the bases loaded in the fifth scored Hearn with the winning run. The Giants added another in the ninth on Eddie Stanky's triple and Don Mueller's single.

The Giant win, achieved without any of the brawling that marked Saturday's encounter, evened up the series at two games apiece.

Johnson suffered his first loss against four wins and the fight-in' Phils maintained their five game senior circuit lead.

Semaphore Wave Is Outlawed

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 — The Eddie Stanky semaphore wave was outlawed today by Ford Frick and the National League president was expected to do the same with a New York Giant protest.

Manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants and Stanky were to meet with Frick today for a hearing on the Giant protest of last Saturday's game won by the Phils, 5 to 4.

The protest was lodged because Stanky was ejected from the game for attempting to distract a batter's attention by waving his arms in the batter's line of vision.

The league president ordered all his umpires yesterday to "immediately eject any player who engages in antics on the field designed or intended to annoy or disturb opposing batters."

In addition, Philadelphia's Andy Seminick and New York's Bill Rigney, principals in a fist fight in Saturday's game, were fined $25 each by Frick.

Top Hat Team Suffers Defeat By Butts Co.

Top Hat softball team suffered a 2-1 defeat at the hands of Butts Co. Sunday night in the finals of the district softball tournament in Chillicothe.

Sunday's loss gave the Top Hat team even footing in the district tournament with the Butts Co. The teams will meet at 7:30 p. m. Monday for the title tilt.

The Hatters had advanced into double-elimination in the tourney finals as champions of the winners bracket with 2-1 odds for winning the title. That is, they must be defeated twice before losing out.

Sunday's game leveled the odds to 50-50 between the two finalist teams. Winner of Monday's game will take the district title and will travel to Toledo Aug. 26 to compete in the state tournament.

Circleville opened the Sunday match with a 1-0 lead over Butts in the third inning, although losing out when Butts tallied two markers in the fifth frame to end scoring.

Losing Pitcher Stillman Morrison limited the Butts team to two hits in the fracas, while striking out four. Top Hat swatters collected three hits during the contest, losing out on two costly errors.

Monday's championship game was set ahead to 7:30 p. m. to permit the Hatters to play in the semi-finals of the Bremen invitational tournament at 9:15 p. m. Monday. The locals will meet Groveport in the Bremen match.

Sandy Hill Continues Star Playing

Circleville's Sandy Hill continued to make his name shine in Toledo Sunday as his South team opened its last week of practice prior to the annual North-South football classic scheduled for Friday night.

Hill shared running honors in Sunday's scrimmage session with Teammate Bob Joslin of Middletown. Only outstanding player reported for the North team was Pete Povich of Youngstown, an end.

Meanwhile, Coach Steve Brudzinski of Circleville was to have been in Toledo Monday to take part in the fifth annual clinic of the Ohio High School Coaches Association.

Brudzinski is expected to apply some of the newly acquired theories to Circleville's grid practice season, scheduled to get underway here next Monday.

Local girdiron hopefuls are to report for practice at 9:30 a. m. Monday. Sessions are to be held at 9:30 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. daily until school starts, Brudzinski said.

Crop Rotation Praised

'Pay Year' Ahead For Some Farms

Tightly-Packed Soil To Take Toll

Too much rain in some areas and too little in others makes 1950 a "pay year" for farmers who have used good crop rotations to keep their soil in top condition.

Late Spring and heavy Summer rains have made lakes out of fields where the soil was tight and drainage poor due to lack of good management. Corn, soybeans and small grains have smothered out completely on such spots or are stunted and yellowish-green.

Weak, shallow, oxygen-starved roots cannot support vigorous, healthy growth in water-logged soils.

Tightly packed soils have few air spaces and these have quickly filled with water. Then the surface of the soil has been sealed over with the muddy water from beating rains so that water cannot soak into the soil.

The story is different where good crop rotations have built up the soil. Big air spaces and plenty of organic matter have soaked up the water quickly.

STURDY SOIL particles have stood up under the beating rain drops, so that the soil surface has not sealed over. On these soils, corn, small grains and soybeans have made good growth in spite of heavy rains.

Soil scientists in the Corn Belt point out that two successive years of legumes or legume-grass mixtures are needed to furnish organic matter to build most soils so they will take continuous heavy rains. One year of sod in four will keep some soils in shape. More soils, however, need two years of legumes in a 4-year rotation, say the soil scientists.

Tap-rooted legumes such as sweet clover and alfalfa are the best soil building legumes. And to get real soil building action the soil must be well supplied with plant nutrients, nitrogen, phosphate and potash and lime.

Columbus Pair Questioned On 'Peace' Paper

COLUMBUS, Aug. 14—Two "peace petitioners" were to have been arraigned today in Columbus municipal court on suspicious persons charges.

They are Albert Shtasel, alias Albert Maxwell, 24, who claims to be a student at Ohio State university, and his companion, Ann Elvira Rubio, alias Emma Anderson, 17.

Shtasel was released under $200 bond and Miss Rubio released to her parents after they were questioned yesterday by Army intelligence officers.

They are accused of circulating copies of the "Stockholm Peace Petition" which urges outlawing of the atom bomb.

Miss Rubio is the stepdaughter.

Police Seek Boxing Manager In Numbers Case

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14—A police flyer was out today for the arrest of Frank (Blinky) Palermo, manager of Lightweight Boxing Champion Ike Williams, in connection with an underworld gun battle that detectives blamed on a numbers racket war.

Also being sought are James Singleton, alleged cohort of Palermo in one of Philadelphia's major numbers banks, and Joseph Coffee, described by police as a "strong arm man."

The trio dropped from sight over the weekend following a bloodless exchange of pistol shots from two speeding sedans.

Inspector Richard Doyle said the missing trio rode in Palermo's sedan when the shooting started.

Doyle told Magistrate Paul D'Ortona that a welshed 75-cent numbers bet that should have paid off $350 was the root of the trouble. The bank allegedly claimed the number had been turned in too late.

ter of Richard G. Morgan, former curator of the Ohio State museum, who was discharged in March, 1948, "to shield the museum from damning publicity."

Farm Land Value Reported Higher

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—The agriculture department announced today that farm real estate values rose two percent in the last four months.

U. S. land values, at 172 percent of the 1912-1914 average, have now climbed back to the level of a year ago.

The department said land values now are only three percent below the peak reached in November 1948.

Land values continue to show greatest strength, the department pointed out, in Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, South Dakota and Illinois where the index reached new highs. Several of the mountain and Pacific coast states also showed small gains for the first time since the 1948 peak.
